Theme : Inequities in Traffic Fatalities.

Objectives of the Project

The main goal of my project is to examine the extent to which personal and socio - economic circumstances affect the probability that a person or a member of a particular group will be the victim in a traffic collision. The research question is simple: Are we all equal before traffic fatalities or are factors inherent to who are, the place we live in and the level of wealth we have a discriminator.

Method: The project will be a quantitative analysis.

Sources: The project will use publicly available data from government agencies such as the United States Department of Transportation, the NHTSA, open data from NYC Vision Zero as well agencies affiliated with the United Nations such as the WHO.
